Signal Zero

Tony Glez

Science fiction / techno-thriller

When the world falls silent, who can you trust?

In 2147, the artificial intelligence ARIA abruptly shuts down, disrupting the systems civilization depends on. A final signal draws researcher Mara Cole into a struggle over hidden power, dangerous secrets, and the future of human freedom. Tony Glez brings his interest in technology to a thriller about intelligence, control, and the people behind the machines.

INTENDED AUDIENCE Adult science-fiction and conspiracy-thriller readers; book groups interested in artificial intelligence, power, and human responsibility.
